 Stems the old Connaught's foaming flood,
 Seated in the sable garb of woe,
 With haggard eyes the poet stood;
 Loose his beard and hoary hair
 Stream'd, like a meteor, to the troubled air;
 And with a Master's hand, and Prophet's fire,
 Struck the deep sorrows of his lyre.*

Entered at Stationers Hall.

To His Royal Highness
George Augustus Frederick Prince of Wales.

Sir,

These ancient Remains of the Welsh Bards, which I presume to lay before your Royal Highness, are, I would hope, not unworthy of such distinguished patronage.

In the country from which you derive your august title, Music has ever been numbered among its chosen entertainments, and, when united with Poetry, afforded a species of luxury, innocent and instructive.

There was a time, when the Princes of Wales claimed, as their prerogative, to preside in the Congress of the Bards, and thought it not unbecoming their station to assign, in person, those rewards, which were decreed to merit in that famed solemnity. The name of the Bard was revered by Royalty itself; and the number and skill of his Poets gave dignity to the throne of the Prince, and stability to his renown.

Many of the following compositions have often resounded, in the day of festival, through the Halls of your illustrious Predecessors: and I am persuaded that your Royal Highness will feel some interest in restoring to public notice, what has received so honourable a sanction; and will deign to ratify with your approbation these venerable remains of Harmony and Poetry, which descend to you as your hereditary right.

The facility with which your Royal Highness has condescended to become the Patron of this work, is a noble proof of an early attachment to the interests of polite literature, and a favourable presage of its future and permanent welfare.

Whatever be the success of this attempt to save from oblivion the remaining vestiges of the Bards, it will serve as a memorial of the zealous veneration I shall ever entertain for your Royal Highness's person and noble protection of the Arts, while I have the honour to be,

Your Royal Highness's
Most Dutiful and
Most Devoted Servant,
Edward Jones.

*Gorhoffedd Gwyr Harlech. — The March of the Men of Harlech **

Majestic

* Harlech Castle, in Merionethshire, was formerly a celebrated Fortress, and is said to have been built by that war-like Prince, Maelgwn Gwynedd about A.D. 530. In the beginning of the Sixth Century it was called Twr Bronwen y Brenhinoedd, from Bronwen, the Daughter of Prince Llŷr of Harlech, who probably lived in the Castle; and the highest Turret of it, to this day, goes by the name of Bronwen's Tower. This Fortress was rebuilt, or repaired, about the Year 877, by Collwyn ab Tanguo, one of the fifteen Tribes of North Wales, and Lord of Evionydd, Ardudwy and part of Llŷn; and from him it was called Caer-Collwyn, or Collwyn's Castle. This venerable Castle is perhaps the oldest remains of all the British Forts; and a most stately Structure of invulnerable strength both by Art and Nature, being situated on a lofty Rock which commands a fine Bay of the Sea, and the Passage of entrance upon that Coast. — Nennius's Brit: Hist: and from Ancient M. There is another very Ancient Tune that bears a similar name to the above; A Rhapsody of it, as formerly used with the Cwydd Pedwar, concludes each stanza as follows.

"Nawdd Mair a nawdd y grôg, — — — — — The protection of Mary & protection of the Cross;

Hai down ir deri danno." — — — — — Come let us hasten to the Oaken-Grove.

Which is the burden of an old Song of the Druids, sung by the Bards and Vades, to call the people to their religious assemblies in the Groves. Also, it is evident that the old English Song,

"He down, down derry down?"

Also, "In Summer time when leaves grow green,

Down a down, a down?"

is derived from that Druidical Song.

A Song of the wooing of Queen Catherine by Sir Owen Tudor,
a young Gentleman of Wales.

Whilst King Henry V. was pursuing his conquest in France, Charles VI. unable to resist his victorious arms, came to a treaty with him, and in the year 1420, King Henry was married to Catherine, the daughter of Charles; by virtue of which the latter acknowledged Henry, Regent of France, during his Lifetime, and after his death absolute sovereign of that kingdom. The Christmas following King Henry brought his Queen over to England, where she was crowned on the 24 Feb. 1421. The season of taking the field being come, and the Dauphin having levied fresh forces, King Henry hastened over to France, whither his Queen could not accompany him, being at that time with child, and on the 6th of December following she was delivered at Windsor of Prince Henry, who succeeded his Father. The April following she passed over to France with large reinforcements for her husband; he being at that time very ill of the Dysentery, of which he shortly after died. Soon after, Queen Catherine returned to England. It was impossible that a young handsome widow, of her dignity could live without a number of admirers; and in the foremost rank appeared Sir Owen Tudor†, of Pen-Mynydd Môn, in Anglesey; who was a graceful and most beautiful person, and descended from the ancient Welsh Princes. (This Owen was son of Meredith ab Tudor ab Gronw ab Tudor, ab Gronw, ab Ednyfed Fychan, baron of Brinfengh, in Denbigh-land, Lord of Caerth; and so lineally descended from King Beli the great. His genealogy was drawn out of the chronicles of Wales, by order of King Henry the Seventh, and is to be found in the appendix of Camden's History of Wales, the last edition.) Sir Owen Tudor was an officer of the Queen's household, and being comely and active, he was desired to dance before the Queen; & in a turn not being able to recover himself, fell into her lap, as she sat upon a little stool with many of her ladies about her. Soon after, he won her heart and married her; and by him she had three sons; of whom Edmund the eldest, was created Earl of Richmond, and was Father to King Henry the 7th. The second Son was Earl of Pembroke. — Queen Catherine survived this husband also, and then retired into the Nunnery of Bermondsey in Surry, where she died in the 14th year of the reign of her son Henry the VI.

A worthy gentleman, a beautiful person, garnished with many qualities both of nature & of grace, called Owen Tudor, a man to behold, of the noble lineage & ancient line of Cadwalader, last King of the Britons. — Tudor married Queen Catherine in the year 1430; by which he had three sons, & a daughter, who was married to the Duke of Burgundy. — See Camden's R. & Ant. of Wales 1722, p. 566.

Translated from the Welsh

I fa-lute thee, sweet Princess, with ti-tle of grace, for Cu-pid commands me in heart to em-brace: Thy ho-nours, thy vir-tues, thy fa-vour, and beau-ty, with all my true fer-vice, my love and my duty. Courteous kind gen-tle-man, let me request, how comes it that Cu-pid hath wounded thy breast, And chain'd thy heart's lik-ing my ser-vant to prove, That am but a stranger in this thy kind love.

Tudor.

If but a stranger, yet love hath such power,
To lead me here kindly into the Queen's bower;
Then do not, sweet Princess, my good will forsake,
When nature commands thee a true love to take.

Queen.

So royal of calling and birth am I known,
That matching unequal, my state's overthrown:
My titles of dignity thereby I lose,
To wed me and bed me, my equal I'll chuse.

Tudor.

No honors are lost (Queen) in chusing of me,
For I am a Gentleman born by degree,
And favors of Princes my state may advance,
In making me noble and fortunate chance.

Queen

My robes of rich honors most brave to behold,
Are all o'er imbossed with silver and gold,
Not therewith adorn'd, I lose my renown,
With all the brave titles that wait on a crown.

Tudor

My country, sweet princess, more pleasure affords,
Than can be expressed by me here in words:
Such kindly contentments by nature there springs,
That hath been well liked of Queens & of Kings.

Queen

My courtly attendants are trains of delight,
Like stars of fair heaven all shining so bright:
And those that live daily such pleasures to see,
Suppose no such comfort in country can be.

Tudor

In Wales we have fountains, no crystal more clear,
Where murmuring music we daily may hear,
With gardens of pleasure, and flowers so sweet,
Where true love with true love may merrily meet

Queen

But there is no tilting nor tournaments hold,
Which gallant young ladies desire to behold,
No masks, nor no revels, where favours are worn,
By Knights, or by Barons, without any scorn.

Tudor

Our maypole at Whitsuntide maketh good sport,
And moves as sweet pleasures as yours do in court,
Where on the green dancing for garland and ring,
Maidens make pastime and sport for a King

Queen

But when your brave young men and maidens do-
Whilst silver-like melody murmuring keeps,
Your musick is clownish and foundeth not sweet,
And locks up your senses in heavenly sleeps.

Tudor

Our Harps,our Tabors and Crwths sweet humming—
For thee,my sweet Princess,make muscal moans:
Our morris maid-marrians desire to see
A true love knot tied,between thee and me.

Queen

No pleasure in country by me can be seen,
That have been maintaind so long here a Queen,
And fed on the blessings that daily were given,
Into my brave palace,by angels from heaven.

Tudor

Our green-leav'd trees will dance with the wind,
Where birds sit rejoicing according to kind;
Our sheep with our lambs will skip and rebound,
To see thee come tripping along on the ground

Queen

What if a kind Princess should to be content,
By meekness thus moved to give her consent,
And humble her honors,and hafe her degree,
To tye her best fortunes,brave Tudor,to thee.

Tudor

If to a Kingdom I born were by birth,
And had at commandment all nations on earth,
Their crowns and their sceptres should I wear at thy
And thou be my Empress,my darling so sweet.

Queen

I fear not to fancy thy love-tempting tongue,
For Cupid is coming,his bow very strong;
Queen Venus once mistress of heart-wishing pleasure
We over-kind women repent us at leisure.

Tudor

May never fair morning shew forth his bright beams,
But cover my falsehoods with greatest extremes,
If not as the turtle I lye with my Dove,
My gentle kind Princess,my Lady,my love.

Queen

Hie then into Wales,and our wedding provide,
For thou art my bridegroom,and I'll be thy bride,
Get gloves and fine ribbons,with bride-laces fair,
Of silk and of silver for ladies to wear.

Tudor

With garlands of roses,our house-wifely wives,
To have them adorned most lovingly strive;
Their bride-cakes be ready,our Pibgorns do play,
Whilst I stand attending to lead thee the way.

Tenderly

What tho' no grants of royal donors
With pompous titles grace our blood!
We'll shine in more substantial honors,
And to be noble we'll be good.

Our Name, while Virtue thus we tender,
Will sweetly sound where-e'er 'tis spoke:
And all the great ones, they shall wonder
How they respect such little folk.

What tho' from fortune's lavish bounty,
No mighty treasures we possess,
We'll find within our pittance plenty,
And be content without excess.

Still shall each kind returning season
Sufficient for our wishes give;
For we will live a life of reason,
And that's the only life to live.

Through Youth and Age in love excelling,
We'll hand in hand together tread;
Sweet-smiling Peace shall crown our dwelling,
And babes, sweet-smiling babes, our bed.

How should I love the pretty creatures,
While round my knees they fondly clung;
To see them look their Mother's features,
To hear them lip their Mother's tongue.

And when with envy time transported,
Shall think to rob us of our joys;
You'll in your Girls, again be courted,
And I'll go wooing in my Boys.
